A Morning Workshop (11 am – noon)

A1: The Seven Stories We Live By

Most of us are driven by six common stories that promise peace and security, but produce conflict and sorrow. Many of us are coming to see how Jesus confronted those six societal narratives and proposed an alternative, a seventh story of freedom and reconciliation. In this workshop, we'll practice our "narrative fluency," more deeply understand Jesus and his message, and gain insight into how to teach and lead our congregations in turbulent times.

Leader: Brian McLaren, Author, Speaker, Activist, and Public Theologian. <https://brianmclaren.net>

A2: Working with the Board of Pensions

Ever get confused by Board of Pensions matters? Here's a chance to explore the when, why and how of interacting with the Board of Pensions and ways to get your questions answered.

Leader: Rocky Poole, Financial Administrator and Treasurer, Presbytery of WV

A3: 2019-2020 Presbyterian Women's Horizons Bible Study

The fall 2019 Horizons Bible Study is Love Carved in Stone: A Fresh Look at the Ten Commandments, by Eugenia Gamble. This workshop is for those who will be teaching the PW Bible Study next fall and anyone else who might be interested. It will introduce the scripture, themes and special features of the study.

Leader: Nellie Howard, Resource Center Director, Presbytery of WV

A4: Church Vitality and Resilience

This workshop will look at the factors that help a church have a vital ministry and deal with the challenges that will come its way.

Leader: Ed Thompson, General Presbyter, Presbytery of WV

A5: Electronic Meetings 101

Electronic meetings offer flexibility, save travel time, and can be more cost effective than traditional face-to-face meetings. This workshop will give participants ideas for improving their skills in moderating electronic meetings. It will also provide ideas for how churches might design parameters for using electronic meetings as well as reviewing what the Presbytery's Manual says about electronic meetings for Presbytery committees. The class will explore for electronic meeting platforms, and include a detailed experience with the Zoom format.

Leaders: Michael Givler, Communications Coordinator, Synod of the Trinity; and Maureen Wright, Stated Clerk, Presbytery of WV

A6: The Salvation Story in Clay

Are you looking for a new way to share the Scripture Story? How about using clay? This hands-on workshop will explore a plan for using clay to tell the story from Genesis to Revelation, and/or different parts within it, with persons of all ages.

Leader: Susan Sharp Campbell, Associate for Educational Ministry, Presbytery of WV, and Pastor, Frankford Presbyterian Church

B Afternoon Workshops (1:15-2:15 pm)

B1: The State of the Presbytery

This workshop will look at trends within the presbytery, including church size, the number of retiring pastors, what it will take for a church to sustain a full-time pastor, and what options a congregation would have if it is not able to afford a full time pastor.

Leader: Ed Thompson, General Presbyter, Presbytery of WV

B2: Session Record Review

This is an opportunity for Clerks of Session to attend Festival of Faith and bring their Session records for annual review (Book of Order, G-3.0108a). This is the primary Records Review event for the Charleston area of Presbytery; however, Clerks of Session from throughout the presbytery are invited to participate. In addition to reviewing records, participants will be provided with helpful information to be a better Clerk of Session. Please note: records must be accompanied by the Clerk of Session, a Ruling Elder member of Session or pastor in order to be reviewed.

Leader: Maureen Wright, Stated Clerk, Presbytery of WV

B3: Is this Call for Me/Them??

This workshop is designed for those who may have sensed, or wonder if they've sensed, a call to ministry. It's also for those who may have sensed someone whom they know is called to ministry and wonder how to help them discern that call. (Ministry here refers to either a call as a minister, Christian educator, missionary, or something else.)

Leaders: Dana Sutton, Professional Certified Coach and at large member of the Presbytery of WV; and Jim Musgrave, Chair, Vocations Committee, Presbytery of WV, and Ruling Elder, Highlawn Presbyterian Church, Huntington

B4: Introduction to Big God Big Questions: Confirmation for a Growing Faith

Organized around the traditional questions of membership and based upon the findings of the Confirmation Project (a study across five denominations around confirmation in their traditions), Big God Big Questions is the new PCUSA confirmation curriculum. This workshop will focus on the curriculum and its components; uses in ministry settings; and reviews by those who are currently using it.

Leader: Susan Sharp Campbell, Associate for Educational Ministry, Presbytery of WV, and Pastor, Frankford Presbyterian Church

B5: The Basics of Worship Visuals

The Word of God is proclaimed through every element of worship. What visual message is your worship space sending? How can visuals enhance and reinforce the proclamation? Get some general advice about visuals in the sanctuary, review the elements of visual design, and take home suggestions for creating a worship visuals tool kit. This workshop is for pastors, worship committee members, artsy people, non-artsy people, visual learners, and anyone interested in creating more visually interesting worship.

Leader: Amy Parker, Minister of Education and the Arts, Village Chapel Presbyterian Church, Charleston

B6: Board of Pensions Insurance Options

The Board of Pensions offers a variety of different options for insurance coverage. This workshop will review the options and help answer questions about which coverage would be best for your church staff.

Leader: Doug Portz, Area Representative for Board of Pensions, PC(U.S.A.)

C Afternoon Workshops (2:25-3:25 pm)

C1: The Seven Stories We Live By

Most of us are driven by six common stories that promise peace and security, but produce conflict and sorrow. Many of us are coming to see how Jesus confronted those six societal narratives and proposed an alternative, a seventh story of freedom and reconciliation. In this workshop, we'll practice our "narrative fluency," more deeply understand Jesus and his message, and gain insight into how to teach and lead our congregations in turbulent times.

Leader: Brian McLaren, Author, Speaker, Activist, and Public Theologian. <https://brianmclaren.net>

C2: Creativity and Spirituality

We acknowledge God as Creator and celebrate being made in God's image. But do we see creativity as part of our spiritual DNA? Come explore the relationship between creativity and spirituality, and discover something new about God, self, and the world around us.

Leader: Mark Parsons-Justice, Member, Bream Memorial Presbyterian Church, Charleston

C3: Second Look at Moderating Session Meetings

There is no class titled Moderating Session Meetings 101 at seminary. Most folks learn to moderate a session by asking a mentor or friend, watching someone moderate, or fumbling through by trial and error or by luck. This workshop will present ways to craft session meetings that are spiritually nourishing, effective, and time efficient. The Top Ten List of polity mistakes (and how to avoid them) will be highlighted. Let's learn to be better moderators together.

Leaders: Maureen Wright, Stated Clerk, Presbytery of WV; and Anna Pinckney Straight, Pastor, Old Stone Presbyterian Church, Lewisburg

C4: Get Out: Rethinking the Role of the Church in Community

Society is changing. Hierarchical institutions are struggling to compete with organic networks in all layers of society. How might the church respond to this emerging reality? How do we develop models of ministry that look more like organic networks that operate out in the community, rather than inside the walls of our church institutions? In this workshop we will explore these questions and more as we discuss practical strategies for church evangelism and revitalization, drawing on wisdom from the 1001 New Worshiping Communities Movement.

Leaders: Zac Morton, Pastor, First Presbyterian Church, Morgantown; and Mavis Grant-Lilley, Ruling Elder, First Presbyterian Church, Morgantown

C5: As the Tables Turned - Jesus in the Temple and 'Money Changer Monday' idea

Jesus' "Cleansing the Temple" is oft overlooked, understated or misunderstood, yet some believe is the pivotal event linking the Old and New Testaments ... a simple yet momentous story. It's significant because that leads directly to the cross ... the tipping point from the cursed fig tree and turned tables, to the Temple's CE 70 destruction and birth of Christianity. Discuss ideas and dramatizations around "Money Changer Monday."

Leaders: Ray Foss, Ruling Elder, First Presbyterian Church, Parkersburg; and John Yeager, Commissioned Pastor, Eleanor Presbyterian Church

D Afternoon Workshops (1:15-3:25 pm)

D1: New Treasurer's Workshop

This workshop will be an introduction to responsibilities of the church treasurer. Important duties of treasurers, interactions with the congregation, session, Board of Pensions, Presbytery and IRS will be reviewed.

Leader: Rocky Poole, Financial Administrator and Treasurer, Presbytery of WV

D2: Stewardship: What Does It Really Mean?

What does the word "stewardship" mean to Presbyterians and our diverse churches? Join in a discussion of ways to improve the giving of our time, treasure and talent.

Leader: Becky Ceperley, Chair of the Stewardship Committee, Presbytery of WV, and Ruling Elder, First Presbyterian Church, Charleston

D3: Creating Sacred Space at the End of Life

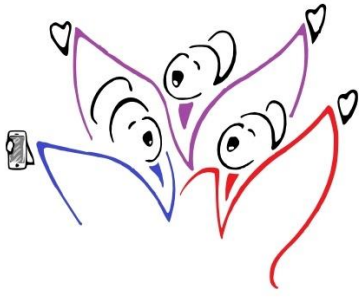

Making decisions with or for a patient at or near the end of life is seldom easy. Pastoral leaders, caring professionals and caregivers work with those who are dying and their families to improve the patients' end of life care. In this workshop we will discuss cultural barriers, advance directives, patients' rights, options for end of life care, and the grief process.

Leader: Hanno Kirk, LICSW, member, Old Stone Presbyterian Church, Lewisburg

D4: Officer Training

The Book of Order requires churches to provide training for newly elected deacons and elders. This workshop will satisfy that requirement for those who attend. It will also offer a viable model for pastors to do this training in their own churches. Participants are asked to bring a copy of the latest Book of Order (2017-2019) with them to the workshop.

Leader: Robin Ray, Pastor, Bridgeport Presbyterian Church
